+ Approval Conditioned Re: Metering:

Approval of this program is conditional in NEVADA ONLY. The location is responsible for maintaining meter readings of games played per coin in. Reason for requirement: the payback percentage spread for one-coin-bet versus max-coins-bet games is greater than 4%.

The term "par value" or "payback percentage" refers to the theoretical percentage of coin-in that is paid out by a particular game as an average over an extended period of time.

The term "percentage hold" is equal to one hundred percent (100%) minus the par value.

The term "optimum value" refers to the theoretical percentage of coin-in that is paid out to an imaginary player employing optimum skill strategy on a particular game in which skill is a component in the payback percentage.

Each of the terms defined above is determined by IGT according to a computer calculation program developed by IGT. Due to the strategy employed by each individual player in games involving player skill, IGT cannot predict the actual observed par, payback percentage, or percentage hold values with certainty. The IGT computer calculation program attempts to account for optimum skill strategy to provide customers with a comparative measure between games. Any numerical representation of the defined terms made by IGT, whether oral, written, or in any other form, should not be relied on for revenue forecasts.
